Bridge

At the bridge table you owe it to your partner to look pleasant; it's dangerous to let the opponents know when you're in trouble.

Opening lead — ♦ J.

Today's South saw that she would probably lose two hearts, a club and a spade. You might say that diamonds were her best friend, but you'd be mistaken (as well as corny). South played a low diamond from both hands at the first trick, smiling as she let the enemy take an "unnecessary" trick. West ploughed right ahead with the ten of diamonds, and South took the ace. She cashed the ace of spades, the king and ace of clubs and the king of diamonds, discarding the last club. The club discard made up for the diamond loser. Now South ruffed a club and held her breath. Fortunately, both opponents followed suit. South led a trump to the king and cashed the last club to get rid of a heart. West could get his trump then or later, but South lost only one heart and made her contract. DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with one club, you bid one spade, and partner raises to two spades. The opponents pass. You hold: Spades-A, 9, 8, 7, 4, 3; Hearts-10, 6; Diamonds-A, 2, and Clubs-K, 10 and 5. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid four spades. Partner's rebid indicates a minimum opening bid, and slam must be out of the question.
